Every morning, on their way to work, Sydneysiders would be greeted with a single word, written on the footpaths. It was the word Eternity.

From 1932, until 1966, Arthur Stace wrote his one-word message more than half a million times.

But why devote his life to this one-word message?

Stace died on 30th July 1967. To mark the 50th anniversary of the death of this Sydney legend, join us at St. Matthew’s Anglican Church for our Eternity Festival.

The man who cared about where you will spend Eternity.
You’re invited to our Eternity Festival

You are most welcome any Sunday — at 9:30am.

St. Matthew’s Anglican Church
Greystanes — Merrylands West
11 Ridge Street, Merrylands West
Church at 9:30am on Sundays. All welcome.

www.greystanes.net Ph: 9682 7613

Painting of Arthur Stace at Circular Quay reproduced by kind permission of the artist, David Lever. See www.greystanes.net/eternity for details.

• Remembering “Mr. Eternity”, Arthur Stace.
  The true story of a Sydney legend.
  Sunday 30th July, 9:30am.

• How to be sure you are ready for Eternity.
  The wonderful news Arthur Stace discovered.
  Sunday 6th August, 9:30am.